Editorial

Moving closer towards our 2020 Vision...

Welcome to the first issue of the FIM Women in Motorcycling Commission's Newsletter!

The introduction of this Newsletter - which will be published regularly - is a great achievement for our Commission, especially as it is being launched on International Female Ride Day (4 May)!

Our Newsletter provides us with the opportunity to showcase the achievements of female riders world-wide; to keep everyone informed regarding sporting and non-sporting activities and projects, and of course to encourage more women to become involved in motorcycling.

We are particularly proud to also introduce the newly created Women in Motorcycling Commission logo (and special colour code!). We are confident that the logo will increase awareness as well as the recognition of women at all levels and in various roles in motorcycling.

It is our hope that our Newsletters will also encourage FMNs and CONUs, to commit to the advancement of women within their countries, to signing the Brighton Declaration and to introduce special projects and programmes for women to continue to increase the number of participants in the sport as well as non-sporting activities.

CROSS COUNTRY<sub>news</sub>

2nd victory for Camelia

Following her victory at the Abu Dhabi Desert Challenge, first stage of the FIM Cross Country Rally 2012 World Championship, Camelia Liparoti strengthens her leadership by securing the second competition stage in Qatar. With two wins in two rallies, Camelia is on the right path to secure the fourth championship world title! "This rally, staged in Qatar for the first time, was not too long - a prologue and four days of competition averaging 350 kilometres per day - but extremely physical because of the very rocky terrain that hurts the arms", she says. In charge of her Yamaha 700 Raptor, Camelia qualifies first in the women's motorbike-quad bike category, while occupying the third place in the overall category of the quad bike world championship standings.

ROAD RACING<sub>news</sub>

Elena Rosell joins Moto2

The MotoGP series has gained the first woman rider since German rider Katja Poensgen left the 250cc ranks in 2003. Spanish rider Elena Rosell has joined the 2012 Moto2 World Championship with the Qatar Motor and Motorcycle Federation Team. Despite suffering a pelvis injury, Rosell managed to reach the finish line in 28th place at season opener GP in Qatar. In Jerez she retired after 13 laps. The girl from Spain made her début in the Moto2 Championship with the Aspar Team last year at Assen, at Aragon and at Valencia.

MXnews

The FIM Women's MX World Championship series had a really exciting start in Valkenswaard, Netherlands. Altogether 42 women riders entered the season opener that was held in pretty cold and rainy weather. The fight on the tough track between France's Livia Lancelot, Steffi Laier from Germany and Italy's Chiara Fontanesi really gave the spectators what they turned out to see.

Laier, who was racing on her Kawasaki for the first time, was ill over the whole weekend. Her results (2nd in race 1 and 3rd in race 2) are therefore a great achievement. "I really wanted to battle for second place, as Fontanesi was gone. But I really had no power in my body. So in the end I am happy to give the team a podium", she explains.

Fontanesi was naturally happy after the victory. "I am very satisfied, I won, so everything is now OK", she said.

While Fontanesi won the first two races in Valkenswaard, Lancelot went on to take the next two races held in Castelnau de Lévis, France. From this year, Laier will only be racing the three rounds that are held together with the MX1 (Netherlands, England and Germany), so Lancelot and Fontanesi were able to battle it out between them in France.

TRIALnews

German bicycle company UNIVEGA has confirmed its continuing and expanding relationship with the FIM. UNIVEGA will donate three of its state-of-the-art mountain bicycles to celebrate the special achievements of one male, one female and one youth rider.

UNIVEGA has enjoyed a long and rich association with the trial community, having backed the likes of Iris Kramer, Laia Sanz and Adam Raga through its athlete sponsorship programme.

The company sees celebrating the successes of those who are new to top-level Trial and in particular, new to the FIM Women's Trial World Championship, as vital to the future of the sport.

In 2010, UNIVEGA, in conjunction with the FIM created a new award entitled the FIM Women's Trial Rookie of the Year. This year the company will also provide a prize for the second-placed rider in this category.

ENDUROnews

The Women's Enduro World Cup season will kick off tomorrow 5 May in Spain. The battle for the 2012 championship will be close. France's Ludivine Puy won the Cup in 2010 and 2011 while Spain's Laia Sanz was hot on her wheels last year. Now the women face a new situation as they will be riding with the same Gas Gas Factory Team.

"The goal for this year is to try to win, says Sanz. Last year I was so close to LuLu (Puy), so this year I know if I work hard I can fight for the victory! I'm happy to be in a factory team. I'll have much better assistance than last year when I was alone, and I feel so good with my new bike, a 250 cc 4-stroke!"

Sanz did not have the easiest of starts this year, as she suffered an injury to her knee. "But now I feel much better and confident!"

AMA International Women & Motorcycling Conference in Nevada

Nowhere is the passion and dedication of women motorcyclists more apparent than at an AMA International Women & Motorcycling Conference. The popular international event returns July 26-29, 2012, this time in Carson City, Nevada - one of the American West's premier motorcycling destinations.

The Conference focuses on educating, encouraging, inspiring and mentoring women in the lifestyle and sport of motorcycling.

"Regardless of bike brand, riding preference or background, women motorcyclists are bound together by their common passion for life on two wheels," said AMA Marketing Manager Tigra Tsujikawa. "The Conference provides all of us with the opportunity to connect with, and learn from, other women riders. Through seminars, activities, training classes and organized rides, we'll work together to gain knowledge and skills to better navigate where the road or trail leads next."

Previous AMA International Women & Motorcycling conferences have been held in Keystone, Colorado; Athens, Georgia; Buckhannon, West Virginia; Athens, Ohio; and Westerville, Ohio. They have featured targeted attractions for women motorcyclists such as seminars, workshops, speeches, product and motorcycle displays and demo rides, recreational riding and networking.

"Motorcyclists are known for their welcoming attitudes, and this conference is no exception," Tsujikawa said. "Women are encouraged to register their spouses, partners and friends, who can attend all the activities".

The FIM Women in Motorcycling Commission will also be represented at this event and encourages you to join in!

PORTRAIT: Jolandie Rust

Jolandie Rust from Johannesburg is a real adventurer. At the moment she is travelling around Africa with a BMW motorcycle. The launch for her solo epic trip took place in the beginning of April, when she set off from Cape Agulhas (the southernmost tip of Africa). She will be travelling through 32 countries before returning to South Africa, aiming to get there by mid/end August.

One of Jolandie's main aims is to promote women in motorcycling and also motorcycling as a means of transport and leisure riding, as well as FIM AFRICA. While she is in the cities and towns, she will meet as many ladies as possible to show them that women can, and do, have tremendous fun riding!

Jolandie's first adventure cycling trip took place in 2004, when she cycled through Israel with a friend, and in 2008, she cycled solo from Johannesburg to Cape Town. In 2010, she became the first person to circumnavigate South Africa solo on a bicycle.
